Welcome

The Legend of Johnny Lingo is a fun movie, full of laughter and surprises. But, if you think about the story, you will discover that it has a lot to say.

In this movie, everyone experiences rejection. Tama (for sure), Mahana, the village chief's son, the girls, the boys... even the Chief Steward! And, in this movie everyone discovers the value of honesty, hard work, loyalty and friendship. It's a movie that teaches you how to live!

This "Movie Activity Book" gives you some games to play, puzzles to solve, and art to color. You'll have fun as you remember some of the scenes from the movie!

Once you've finished all the activities, make sure you work through the exercises on page 7. That's where some of the lessons of the movie are explained in greater detail, and where you can discover for yourself what to do when you're faced with tough times.

Think About It!

1 – How do you react when you're in trouble?

Tama got into a lot of trouble. The problem was, he did some very dumb things trying to get out of trouble! He lied. He got angry. He ran away. All he did was get himself into MORE trouble by doing those things.

Here's the most important things you can do when you're in trouble:

admit what happened, and ask for help. Think about this:

- » Admit means to tell someone what went wrong, and be truthful about your part in it.
- » Don't try to make excuses, or to blame someone else.
- » Ask for help from someone you trust, and who can sympathize with what you're going through.
- » Your parents are should be the people you turn to first.

2 – What's your most valuable treasure?

Johnny Lingo was rich. No doubt about it, people wanted to have what he owned. And yet, when showing Tama his treasures, Johnny tried to teach Tama that LOVE is the most valuable thing in the world. His question to Tama, and to you: "Are you willing to pay the price?"

Think about this:

- » "Love" isn't an emotion, it's an action. It's what makes one person want to help another.
- » Love doesn't mean you get all gushy-feeling about a person of the opposite sex, it means that you're willing to be loyal and helpful in serving someone other than yourself.
- » The "price" you pay for love is sacrifice. That means doing something you'd rather not do, but you do it anyway because of your love for that person.

3 – How do you steer your life?

When Tama was learning to pilot Johnny Lingo's boat, he needed to learn how to "navigate" – to steer the boat in the right direction even when land was out of sight. Johnny's instruction to Tama was to focus on "something that doesn't change, like the stars."

As you grow, you need to focus on something that doesn't change, so you'll know which way to steer. Here are some ideas to think about:

- » Have a goal: something you want to accomplish. (Make the team, learn an instrument, get a new videogame, or even make better friends.)
- » Work to reach your goal. Don't just bug your parents to get it for you, or hope that it will happen someday. YOU make it happen!
- » Decide what's important. Determine that you'll get to your goal the "right" way, without doing bad things in order to get what you want.
